

Murray Knuttila is Professor Emeritus at Brock University and the University of Regina. He was the Dean of Arts and a Professor of sociology at the University of Regina before moving to Brock University where he was Vice President (Academic) and Provost and a Professor of Sociology. He retired in 2018 and remains an active researcher in the fields of critical men's studies, regional development, rural sociology, and state theory. His books include Paying for Masculinity: Boys, Men and the Patriarchal Dividend, State Theories: Classical Global and Feminist Perspectives, and forthcoming in 2023 Unsettling Saskatchewan.